POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

We like to hear Vice President Spiro Agnew talk. He says a lot of things that need to be said although Nixon is doing nothing to make them come about.

But we are right troubled as Spiro endorses any and all candidates for the U.S. Senate who are republicans. He even tried to get Danforth to run against Missouri Senior Senator Stuart Symington which goes to show just how little he knows about Missouri Politics.

TEN COMMANDMENTS OF THE NEO-NAZIS

A number of astute newspaper observers - Morris Rykiskind, Paul Scott, Ralph deToledo, Alice Widener and others - have pointed to the alarming similarity between the so-called "new left" radicals today, and the young toughs who helped Hitler bash his way to power in Germany. Although there is ample evidence of strong cooperation and mutual support between the SDS, Weathermen, Moratorium, Panther and Communist elements, the radicals of 1970 have all the earmarks of 1930 to 1940 Fascism.

This was deftly pinpointed by Vice President Spiro Agnew in a speech before the governors' conference held recently in Washington, D.C. Mr. Agnew, the Nixon Administration's most successful answer to the vocal minority, declared that the tactics of the new left could be defined as the "Ten Commandments of Protest."

Thou shalt not allow thy opponent to speak.

Thou shalt not set forth a program of thine own.

Thou shalt not trust anybody over thirty.

Thou shalt not honor thy father or thy mother.

Thou shalt not heed the lessons of history.

Thou shalt not write anything longer than a slogan.

Thou shalt not present a negotiable demand.

Thou shalt not accept any establishment idea.

Thou shalt not revere any but totalitarian heroes.

Thou shalt not ask for forgiveness for thy transgressions; rather, thou shalt demand amnesty for them.

Despite the satirical touch, the "Ten Commandments of Protest" paint an all-too-true picture of the Neo-Nazis, who, in the name of absolute "freedom" for themselves, would destroy the freedom of all.

MORE EMPTY PEWS

"We don't think religion has any importance. At one time it did... but not now. Only old women go to church today." That was the comment of a Soviet official to an American reporter. But it could as easily have come from a spokesman for American youth or for the ever-growing number of clerics who have left the church.

According to a Gallup poll, attendance at Catholic churches had fallen five per cent during the past decade. For Protestant churches, the figure was nine per cent. It was a sign of the times when the Episcopal Church announced on Jan. 25 that it was going to close at least six of its 11 seminaries in the United States. Church officials blamed a lack of funds and small enrollments.

Novelist Kenneth Rexroth, writing in Commonwealth (Nov. 14, 1969), says the world is witnessing "a wave of disbelief, greater than those which accompanied the growth of modern scientific materialism in the 19th century and of rationalism in the 18th." Some theologians, however, see the current youth movements as essentially religious in nature. Billy Graham believes there is a "yearning for Jesus," among the young. And Harvard University theologian Harvey Cox, in his recent book The Feast of Fools, suggests rock music is the equivalent of religious contemplation.

To tap this renaissance of spirituality, if that is what it is, some churches have turned to rock masses and happenings. It is too early to predict what effect such innovations will have on church attendance. But UPI's religion writer, Louis Cassels, reported recently that "The outlook for 1970 is for more empty pews."

Quote of the week:
Kansas Senator Robert Dole asked: "Would you believe that any responsible spokesman for the party that tried to end the Vietnam war for eight years would have the effrontery to complain because President Nixon has not ended it in nine months?"

Mechanic's Clue. In Bristol, England, George Law recognized an auto stolen from him three years before, despite fake engine and chassis numbers and a new paint job, proved his ownership by pointing out a piece of chewing gum he had once used to patch an oil leak.

Some observers saw the demise of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST as a sign that all printed media could be going out of date.

Actually, the failure of THE POST had been anticipated for years by leaders in the publishing and advertising industries. Its death did not establish or certify a trend.

THE POST was laid to rest at a time when magazine revenues were at an all time high. It was losing millions of dollars annually while highly successful new magazines were being founded.

One longtime POST advertiser commented, "THE POST failed because it could not define its public." This observation could be applied to any publication, or to any business for that matter.

It can be applied very aptly to newspapers. When in the very large cities, some long-established newspapers merge or close, it means that a shift in the reading public has taken place. In the major metropolitan centers the readers who once supported five or six daily newspapers, have moved to suburban communities. These new publics now support dozens of daily newspaper and hundreds of community weeklies.

Some of the suburban dailies are actually larger and better newspapers than the metropolitan papers they supplanted.

The new newspapers, like the new magazines, are flourishing because they represent a well-defined public. For the retail advertiser it is the best public, made up of the highest percentage of prospective customers.

"Before I sign anything, do you cross your heart and hope to die that you will honor the one-year warranty?"

This is the caption from a cartoon appearing recently in The New Yorker Magazine. The scene is an automobile dealer showroom, and the words are spoken by a customer seated across from a salesman.

The cartoon is mildly funny, unless you happen to be a person who has had trouble getting a new car warranty honored the last few years.

There is growing dissatisfaction on the part of car buyers throughout the country with the performance of auto dealers and manufacturers on the warranties they issue on their products.

Why? It's because more and more buyers are finding they have been deceived by the terms and conditions they have been given concerning the performance and condition of the cars they buy. In many cases, the buyer's only recourse is to sue for breach of warranty - a somewhat unsatisfactory way to get a door hinge adjusted, for example.

Mostly, defects in new cars are ones of comfort and convenience. But in some cases defects make the cars unsafe to drive. One of the more common serious defects seems to be improperly aligned front end. This causes excessive tire wear and poor handling characteristics in certain situations.

Part of this problem may be solved if two rules proposed by Consumers Union are adopted by the Federal Trade Commission:

"A new car warranty is false and deceptive if it attempts to disclaim liability for financial loss or damage caused as a result of defects."

"A new car warranty is false and deceptive unless it promises to repair the automobile itself in the event of serious defects which the manufacturer or dealer cannot or does not remedy."

CU also makes two other recommendations: That customers be given cars to drive, at no expense, while their new cars are being repaired under warranty; and that the Department of Transportation write a minimum standard warranty for all new cars sold in the U.S.

The Men Who Came to Dinner. In Denver, thieves broke into Barbara Klobardans' apartment, took $30 cash, $49 worth of clothes, ate some potato salad, drank some Scotch, found varnish and brush in the kitchen cabinet and touched up the door they had splintered to get in.

HOPES FOR VIETNAM. SIECUS FALLOUT' MEDIA 'MURDER.'

To Americans fighting in Viet Nam, we wish you a happy New Year; i.e., winning and coming home.

To the South Vietnamese, a happy New Year; i.e., sticking by your natural desire to survive, and ignoring the American Viet Cong who speak in diplomates.

Since the November 1st bombing halt, the North Vietnamese have reopened three ports and lengthened two landing strips, the latter to accommodate Communist Mig jets. The three ports, Quang Khe, Dong Hoi and Vinh, are unloading freighters and tankers whose supplies in south-bound truck traffic have increased 10-fold. If allowing this isn't insanity, will someone please explain what is sane about it?

Our article on the SIECUS brand of sex education (Vol. 10 No. 146) has stirred much reader interest. Late word is that the Anaheim school district, where the hurry-up, reddish program first started, is in an uproar, with clouds of parents protesting at school board meetings. An observer on the scene says "Most people are betting the Board will fire Anaheim School Superintendent Paul Cook before the April school board election."

The Neighborhood Youth Corps was set up to pay poor teenagers who need part of full-time work training so they can stay in, or return to, school. Sniffing the anti-poverty air around Detroit, the Congressional watchdog known as the Government Accounting Office (GAO) found the program somewhat amiss. It discovered that hundreds of high school graduates, and some college students, collected government pay checks while a part of 16 Neighborhood Youth Corps projects in 1966 and 1967. Some of the youths received the aid though their families did not meet the low-income provisions of the program. GAO said federal officers "were performing very little monitoring" of the Detroit projects.

Dorothy Hays has to get the rocks out of her basement—400

She says she'll sell some, give some away, keep a few and start working with smaller rocks.

She's reluctant to do it, but after all, how many 4-pound rocks can you keep in a house trailer?

Mrs. Hays, is one of the foremost amateur mineralogists in the country.

Her neat, bright basement workroom houses the collection she has built up over nearly half a century. Its white showcases display the pyrites, jades and geodes about which Mrs. Hays speaks with knowledge acquired over the years.

She is 77, looks several years younger and is married to a successful businessman who is a ham radio bug.

Mr. and Mrs. Hays are soon to leave for Florida, retirement and a new mobile home. The move will mean that Mrs. Hays will have to scale down her hobby drastically. She won't have room for her collection as she does in her present spacious home.

After work my husband goes to the ham equipment and I come down here to work on my minerals," she says. "We enjoy it very much."

But much more than enjoyment has come out of the hobby of the lady without a college degree.

Representatives of the Smithsonian Institution recently expressed interest in her collection.

And the rock-hunting trip to Canada a few years back gave Mrs. Hays a chance to do something that the geologists for a major mining company had tried and failed.

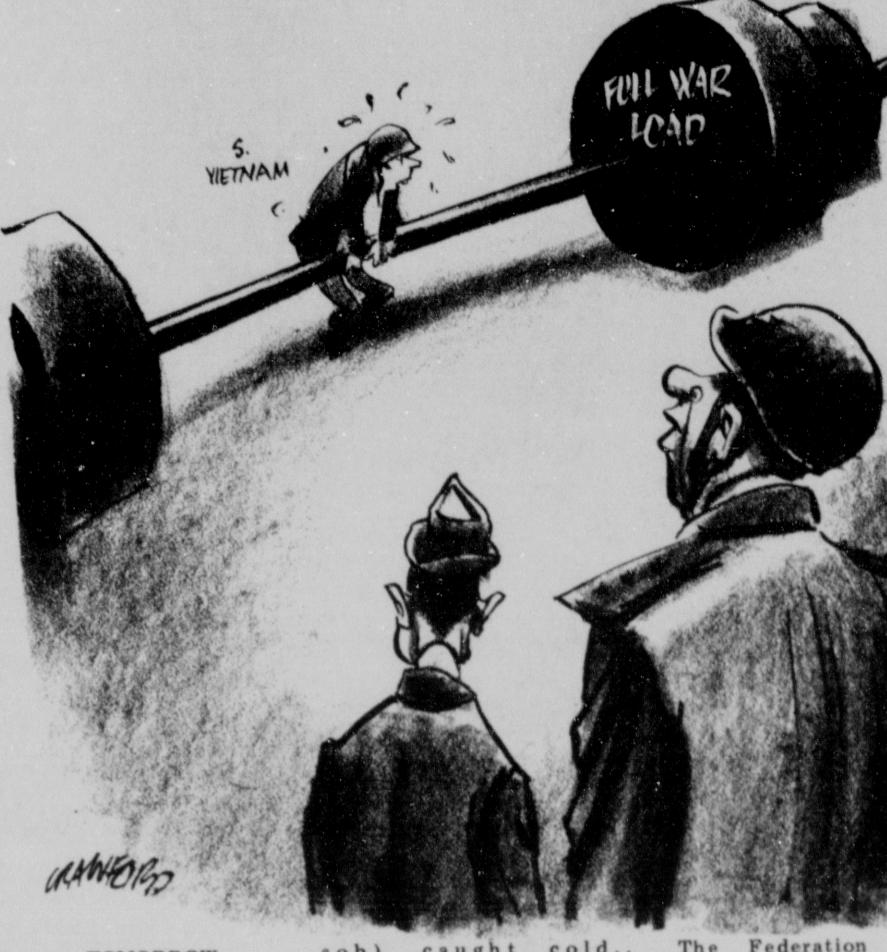

We were just poking around an old dump (for "useless" rocks brought up from tunnel mines) and I found this," she said, pointing out gray rock speckled with what looked like—and was—gold. "I think the company is mining it commercially now."

But commercial aspects of the hobby aren't what catches Mrs. Hays' fancy. "I started when I was 7 or 8 and I've always been more interested in the science aspect of it."

Her scientific interest brought her a four-year stint, analyzing the atomic structure of minerals for the Iowa Highway Commission.

SCOTT CITY — In a Scott-Miss Conference basketball engagement Friday night, the East Prairie Eagles slipped past rival Ilmo Scott-City 77-73. The Eagles also won the B match as they outscored the junior varsity Rams, 66-44.

The Eagles jumped into an early lead at half, 50-41, which almost turned the tide against the IS-C Rams. The Rams played catch-up ball in the remaining half, and found trouble in catching the Eagles, who killed the Ram drive with an enormous 33 field goals to the ISC 11.

Steve Marshall and Robert Falkoff connected for 23 and 22 points to lead the East Prairie Eagles in scoring. Jefferies and Cooper added 14 and 11 points respectively.

Ilmo Scott-City's Ken Caveness sunk 33 points to clinch the high point honors of the night, while teammate Gary Spinks added 21.

East Prairie's JV win, 66-44, was lead by John Davis with 20 points. Rand Amick lead the ISC JV's with 11 in a loosing effort.

Jenkins, Berrong Lead AHS

WOODLAND — Tony Jenkins and Russell Berrong teamed for 35 points to lead the Advance Hornets to a 63-53 basketball victory over Woodland Friday night. The junior varsity hornets made it a perfect night for the team, as they captured the JV match 57-48.

The Cardinals held the lead only once in the game, as they had the early first quarter lead, 16-14. The Hornets then took control of the lead and held it the rest of the night. The size of the lead varies from as much as one point to ten points, the final margin. For the Hornets, the victory was number nineteen, as the squad prepares for the oncoming Regionals.

Berrong's 16 and Jenkins 19 were followed by the 14 points from Dwight Daniels, and 10 from Dennis Long, as the foursome reached to twin figure position for the Hornets.

The fight is set for 10:30 p.m. EST, following a scheduled 10-round heavyweight bout between Gregorio Peralta and unbeaten George Foreman, like Frazier an Olympic champion.

The fight will be seen in this country only on closed circuit television at 120 locations with more than 500,000 seats. New York and a 30-mile surrounding area will be blacked out, but New York will be included in the radio broadcast over the Mutual Broadcasting System.

It also will be seen via satellite in Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Mexico, South America, parts of Europe and parts of Asia.

Frazier, who won his piece of the title by stopping Buster Mathis in 11 rounds March 4, 1968, has won all 24 of his pro fights by knockout.

Heavyweight Battle Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Gospel singing Jimmy Ellis and Joe Frazier, whose style is hard rock, are set to do their real thing tonight — fight for the heavyweight championship of the world.

Frazier, champion of six states including New York, rules as heavy favorite over Ellis, the World Boxing Association king, for the scheduled round bout at Madison Square Garden.

The Las Vegas price on Frazier is $1, while New York boxing circles said it's Frazier $1 in man-to-man betting. Little or no wagering has been reported.

"I think he's the champion, so he should be the favorite," says Yank Durham, Frazier's manager.

"I'm not betting money so it makes no difference," says Ellis.

Dexter stayed close through the first half and midway through the third as it tied before the front running Cubs once before they sped into a 36-26 lead before starting the fourth period.

Richland took third place honors by forfeit as Advance was unable to make the trip because of the weather.

ON RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE PRESIDENCY

TO THE EDITOR

Boy and man I have lived through more than 17 presidential administrations. I have experienced prosperity and depression, sickness and health. During my time I have enjoyed many comic characters, chief among them being the Katzenjammer Kids, Hans and Fritz, brain children of the late Rudolph Dirks. As far as I know, Mr. Dirks has been dead for years. If he still lives I owe him an apology for saying he was dead. I hope if he is alive he will live forever. Mr. Dirks long since has retired his popular characters.

However, Hans and Fritz do live in the flesh of persons of President Richard Nixon and Vice President Spiro (Ignatz) Agnew. Presidents Jack Kennedy and Franklin Roosevelt had keen sense of humor. However, the antics of Nixon and Agnew go beyond the range of sense of humor - they border on the absurdity. Agnew has the 'happy faculty' of putting his foot in his mouth during all his speeches. When he isn't doing that he is making Democrats and Republicans, alike, mad by his silly statements. Washington news sleuths have been unable to determine, to date, whether Agnew's statements are his own, or he is the mouthpiece of Nixon. It is impossible that the sly and astute Nixon could be letting Agnew's words be trail balloons. If they are well received they are his, if adversely received they are those of Agnew. (This, however, would be no crime, or deserve adverse criticism, because it is the subordinate who always takes the gaff.)

Never in the history of the United States, certainly not in my more than 72 years of living has this country had a president who has turned the highest office of this country into one of the Super Bowl Game against the Minnesota Vikings. The President Richard Nixon has quarterbacked in a done. From boarding aircraft carriers to welcome returning astronauts to turning the White House over to comics and show people, Richard Nixon has gone to the extreme to keep up the personal grandiosities at the expense of the presidential office.

There is a certain amount of privacy due all individuals which not even the President of the United States has the right or privilege to invade; also there are perogatives in the hands of designed organizations. These perogatives should, by every manner of common decency, remain status quo.

Collegiate football was 100 years old in 1968 (I'm almost as old as football), but there is a difference. (Football is on the upgrade. I'm on the downgrade). For years it has been the custom of the National Collegiate Athletic Association to name the number one football team of the year; also in 100 years of collegiate football there has been an unwritten law that football players and their coaches be left alone at least a half an hour after each game to collect their thoughts and discuss mistakes during the game.

However, who do you suppose barged into the Texas football team's dressing room after the Longhorns had beaten Arkansas, 15 to 14. No other than Richard M (The M should stand for milestone) Nixon to proclaim Texas the No. 1 football team of the nation. He brought with him a plaque, which he presented to Darrell Royal, Texas coach, to emphasize he was proclaiming the Longhorns in the No. 1 football team in the United States. Such action was an excellent example of usurpation of the power of the NCAA, another example of the President's personal grandiosities.

Benton Mural

Eyed for Stamp

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has recommended a portion of a Thomas Hart Benton mural as pictorial commemoration of Missouri's 150 years as a state.

The sesquicentennial celebration comes in 1971 and the mural section is from a big wall painting at the Harry S. Truman Library in Independence, Mo. The mural is titled "Independence and the Opening of the West."

The portion selected by the Missouri muralist, Benon, shows a settler's family and an ox-drawn covered wagon. Also shown are a Pawnee Indian with a peace pipe, a trapper, a French "voyageur" and a dog.

The selection was approved by the Missouri Sesquicentennial Commission and the governor.

Hearnes wrote Postmaster General Winton M. Blount that if his staff approved, a commemorative stamp should be issued next year.

When early ratings seemed to confirm their predictions, Andy didn't panic. Nor did NBC. The network knew that Williams was drawing a young audience, compared to Gleason's more mature following, which is less appealing to advertisers. An NBC executive told Williams:

Who is this lady?

A. Little Orphan Annie
B. The Jolly Green Giantess
C. Miss Liberty
D. Mae West

If you picked anything other than C, well, you're in a whole lot of trouble.

Sure, you probably picked the Statue of Liberty. Everybody knows who she is and what she stands for.

Or do they? It's amazing how many of us take this proud lady of the New York Harbor for granted.

We should know that her proper name is "Liberty Enlightening the World." That she symbolizes the triumph of freedom over tyranny. That she is a declaration of our independence.

Of course, we need more than statues to remind us of our freedom. We need action, by each and every one of us.

And that's where U.S. Savings Bonds come in. They help preserve that called freedom.

Take stock in America
Buy U.S. Savings Bonds

They help make this country of ours economically stronger to tackle some of the problems that face us.

And, buying Savings Bonds can be easy and automatic. All you have to do is join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank. And then you can sit back and forget 'em while the money piles up.

So think about the freedoms we enjoy. And think about U.S. Savings Bonds as a way to keep us free.

As for Miss Liberty, well, when you're in New York go up and see her sometime.

If they're lost, stolen or destroyed, we replace 'em.

"Peg dear, it won't be long before meal time."

"Yes Sam. Maybe today we will have barbecue pork."

This is the beginning of a Sam story. The setting is in the trim down a little."

It's true Sam is big, in fact about six times larger than Peg. Sam and Peg were united just last year and naturally Peg's name was changed afterward.

The conversation continues:

"I got indigestion from yesterday's feast on chicken livers. And the fish the day before didn't set any too well. In fact, since we first met, I have had trouble getting anything to digest properly," Sam said with an affectionate look in his eyes. You could notice a faint grin on his face. He rarely grins at all. But when he does, you really take notice. There are those who believe Sam looks beatiful at all times whether he grins or not.

Peg noticed Sam's brief moment of tenderness and moved a bit closer. It isn't often Sam shows affection, but Peg is a forgiving sort and capitalizes on Sam when he is in a weak emotional state, so to speak.

Peg thought this might be the time to spring a surprise on Sam.

"Sam there is something I have been wanting to tell you. You better quit moving around and listen. You know Sam that since the beginning creatures on earth have been increasing in number. I think we are about to add to this trend. Sam, I may be pregnant."

Sam was motionless. He didn't say anything. It should be noted, however, he didn't look any more beatiful than usual.

"Well Sam, it takes two for these things you know. I hoped you would be happy," Peg pleaded. She snuggled a bit closer. Sam didn't move.

Sam's snapping was directly responsible for the change in Peg's name after they were united. Sam is commonly known as an alligator snapping turtle. He was captured early last year in Brewer's Lake and weighs about 65 pounds. Peg is a regular snapping turtle and weighs about 10 pounds.

Peg's name was changed from Fran after Sam bit her left front leg off. It was then Peg knew she would be a part of Sam for a long time to come. They are pets of Lee Haley, who lives at Morehouse. This is the story of Sam and Peg up to now.

Revised Budget

of which Bob Robins is Chairman.

This is the largest budget ever proposed for the Dexter C of C, but reflects the increased activity of the Chamber of Commerce and also reflects the rising costs, President Jack Estes said.

Members of the Budget and Finance Committee in addition to Robins includes Estes, Frank Hamra, Marvin Ross and Tom Miller.

"As we increase our activities in various fields, including industrial growth, community betterment and other activities, it becomes necessary to raise more funds," Estes pointed out.

Board members, generally, said they felt it was a conservative budget, but one that will meet the needs of the community service organization during the year ahead.

The C of C now has a fulltime office manager in the person of Mrs. Mary Ellen Blankenship, and maintains an office in the City Administration Building. The C of C pays the city $25 per month for rent of that section of the building and also for use of the entire building for board meetings, committee meetings and other such functions.

Other expense items in the budget include $480 per year for telephone service, $360 per year for supplies, $240 a year for postage, and a sinking fund of $480 per year for the purchase of future office equipment.

Other major items in the budget include $300 a year for the Retail merchants Committee, $240 per year as the C of C share on sign space rental, $168 a year for property taxes and maintenance work on the property, $720 a year for travel expenses, $840 for the community betterment program and the youth program, and numerous other miscellaneous expenses.

The total projected budget came to $9,148.36, but a $75 per month sinking fund for the payment of interest on a real estate loan which the C of C owes, was also made a part of the budget, bringing the total to $10,048.36.

"If Dexter is to grow and expand, and if this is to continue to be a bigger and better Chamber of Commerce, we feel that this budget figure must be met," President Estes and members of the board pointed out.

The solicitation of funds to meet the budget is getting underway.

The C of C and its activities, one board member said, "are vital to the continued betterment of our community. For this reason, this budget should be met and, we hope, over-subscribed".

Corner of Questions

By Pastor Don Wilson
(Bethel Baptist Church, Dearborn Heights, Michigan)

QUESTION: HOW SHOULD
THE HOLLYWOOD
THEATRICAL CROWD BE CHARACTERIZED?

ANSWER: DOT RECORDS' album picturing unshaven, long-haired males kissing, as a husband would his wife, is sheer mockery of marriage. Even worse, it parades perversion in four colors so as to offend sodomy is same and buffoonery requires no balance.

Scripture teaches otherwise: "He which made them in the beginning made them male and female. And said, For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and cleave to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh." Any lesser standard is perversion.

The influence of celebrated perverts confuses weaklings into believing they appear strong and gain merit by "doing their own thing" independent of society; however, to these profiteers of perversion, God says: "What God hath joined together, let not man put asunder." Breaking an established home is adultery; however, licensing perversion to abolish the institution of a moral home is damnable degeneracy. God says: "O full of all subtlety and all mischief, thou child of the devil, thou enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord?" Scripture warns: "God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good or evil."

Christ's return to Earth nears! Earth will reel with perversion just prior to His return. God predicted: "God gave them up to vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature: And likewise the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly."

God's Word teaches: "Likewise JOY shall be in Heaven over one sinner that repents." "Except ye repent ye shall all likewise perish."

"Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shall be saved."

"Will you meet Christ in JOY or JUDGMENT?"

In March, 1919, about 1,000 veterans of the American Expeditionary Force met in Paris, France, to form the American Legion.

Chief Petty Officer Jimmy McBryar, local Navy recruiter reports that John Michael Winders reported for active duty with the U.S. Navy on January 15, 1970. John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milford G. Winders of Bertrand, Missouri.

Seaman recruit Winders enlisted in the Navy's (CACH) delayed enlistment program in September 1969 and picked his date for reporting to active duty at that time. He also chose the Navy's nuclear power submarine program. Seaman Recruit Winders will spend his first two to three years in the Navy going to school training for duty aboard one of the Navy's modern nuclear powered submarines.

Seaman Recruit Winders is presently undergoing basic training at the Naval Training center, Great Lakes, Illinois. While in basic he will receive training in first aid, seamanship, damage control, fire fighting, physical education and the many other skills necessary to prepare a young man for duty aboard ship.

Chief McBryar further stated that the Navy now has openings for immediate active duty enlistments for the qualified man or woman who is looking for an exciting career. There are also openings in the Navy's new 180 day delayed enlistment program. A high school senior can enlist now and build up to six months longevity while still attending school. Letter To The Editor

Dear Mr. Blanton,
Enclosed is an article from the "Tri State Informer," of Cairo, Illinois. It was written by a fourteen year old girl who attends that cities' new Camelot Parochial School.

The people of Cairo have had a very difficult time getting their school started, but - thanks to people like Glen and Vickie Jones, Reverend Potts, Dr. and Mrs. Bondurant and countless others, they will survive.

Prayers and persistence count for a great deal to these people. To prove that their prayers are heard and answered I offer this article.

Thanks for printing this letter.

Mrs. Joyce A. Poynter
306 Cravens
Sikeston, Mo.

P.S. "And A Little Child Shall Lead Them."

A Thank You Note to Dr. and Mrs. Bondurant

Glynnia Jones

It was said that long ago, knights in shining armour rose out to slay dragons and rescue damsels in distress. Well, folks, the age of chivalry is not past, for here in our midst dwells the greatest knight and fairest lady in the land, Dr. and Mrs. Flint Bondurant, who, out of the goodness of their hearts and love for fellow man have given us here at Camelot our newest "impossible dream", a gymnasium and chapel.

Our pledge to you, Dr. and Mrs. Bondurant, is that education, fair play, good sportsmanship, and love for God and man shall always reign supreme here at Camelot, and when Camelot damsels are cheering their knights to victory on the court or when we bow our heads in prayer in the chapel, we will always have a very special kind of thought for you, Sir Knight and Lady Bondurant, who made all this possible.

Then the mayor is authorized to appoint an Urban Renewal board to plan the renewal project. Mattlage emphasized that all actions of the board must be approved by the planning and zoning commission, and by the city council before they can be put into effect.

The board with the approval of these bodies, chooses a project area decides how the city will meet its share of the cost, looks into the possibilities for re-location of persons displaced from the project area, and should investigate the marketability of the land and rehabilitation possibilities of property cleared by the board.

In most cases, Mattlage said, there will be no local tax money in the project. The federal government pays three-fourths of the cost of the urban renewal project, with the local government paying one-fourth. This, however, can be provided by "credits" for local public improvements which serve people in the project area, such as schools, streets, sewers, etc.

Some of the assistance provided by the urban renewal program for families and businesses displaced from the project area include:

Rehabilitation grants (not loans) of up to $3,000 to low income families to fix up their property and stabilize the tax base in the project area.

Rehabilitation loans at 3% interest to families which do not qualify for the rehabilitation grants because of their income.

Payment of moving expenses up to $200 for families and up to $25,000 for businesses which are forced to relocate.

Rent subsidies of up to

Survivors Found Optimists Approve

Buying Rescue Truck

Fire Chief Dolph Webb explained to the Optimist Club the importance of a rescue truck times each week until firemen are trained. The fire department now has seven trained men.

Such a truck could be equipped for rescue purposes in car wrecks, fires, drownings and explosions.

The Bootheel Economic Development Council could supply the funds supplemented by those furnished by civic groups and individuals, Webb said.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

We like to hear Vice President Spiro Agnew talk. He says a lot of things that need to be said although Nixon is doing nothing to make them come about.

But we are right troubled as Spiro endorses any and all candidates for the U.S. Senate who are republicans. He even tried to get Danforth to run against Missouri Senior Senator Stuart Symington which goes to show just how little he knows about Missouri Politics.

TEN COMMANDMENTS OF THE NEO-NAZIS

A number of astute newspaper observers - Morris Ryskind, Paul Scott, Ralph de Toledano, Alice Widener and others - have pointed to the alarming similarity between the so-called "new left" radicals today, and the young toughs who helped Hitler bash his way to power in Germany. Although there is ample evidence of strong cooperation and mutual support between the SDS, Weathermen, Moratorium, Panther and Communist elements, the radicals of 1970 have all the earmarks of 1930 to 1940 Fascism.

This was deftly pinpointed by Vice President Spiro Agnew in a speech before the governors' conference held recently in Washington, D.C. Mr. Agnew, the Nixon Administration's most successful answer to the vocal minority, declared that the tactics of the new left could be defined as the "Ten Commandments of Protest."

Thou shalt not allow thy opponent to speak.

Thou shalt not set forth a program of thine own.

Thou shalt not trust anybody over thirty.

Thou shalt not honor thy father or thy mother.

Thou shalt not heed the lessons of history.

Thou shalt not write anything longer than a slogan.

Thou shalt not present a negotiable demand.

Thou shalt not accept any establishment idea.

Thou shalt not revere any but totalitarian heroes.

Thou shalt not ask for forgiveness for thy transgressions; rather, thou shalt demand amnesty for them.

Despite the satirical touch, the "Ten Commandments of Protest" paint an all-too true picture of the Neo-Nazis, who, in the name of absolute "freedom" for themselves, would destroy the freedom of all.

MORE EMPTY PEWS

"We don't think religion has any importance. At one time it did... but not now. Only old women go to church today." That was the comment of a Soviet official to an American reporter. But it could as easily have come from a spokesman for American youth or for the ever-growing number of clerics who have left the church.

According to a Gallup poll, attendance at Catholic churches had fallen five per cent during the past decade. For Protestant churches, the figure was nine per cent. It was a sign of the times when the Episcopal Church announced on Jan. 25 that it was going to close at least six of its 11 seminaries in the United States. Church officials blamed a lack of funds and small enrollments.

Novelist Kenneth Rexroth, writing in Commonweal (Nov. 14, 1969), says the world is witnessing "a wave of disbelief, greater than those which accompanied the growth of modern scientific materialism in the 19th century and of rationalism in the 18th." Some theologians, however, see the current youth movements as essentially religious in nature. Billy Graham believes there is a "yearning for Jesus" among the young. And Harvard University theologian Harvey Cox, in his recent book The Feast of Fools, suggests rock music is the equivalent of religious contemplation.

To tap this renaissance of spirituality, if that is what it is, some churches have turned to rock masses and happenings. It is too early to predict what effect such innovations will have on church attendance. But UPI's religion writer, Louis Casset, reported recently that "The outlook for 1970 is for more empty pews."

Some observers saw the demise of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST as a sign that all printed media could be going out of date.

Actually, the failure of THE POST had been anticipated for years by leaders in the publishing and advertising industries. Its death did not establish or certify a trend.

THE POST was laid to rest at a time when magazine revenues were at an all time high. It was losing millions of dollars annually while highly successful new magazines were being founded.

One longtime POST advertiser commented, "THE POST failed because it could not define its public." This observation could be applied to any publication, or to any business for that matter.

It can be applied very aptly to newspapers. When in the very large cities, some long-established newspapers merge or close, it means that a shift in the reading public has taken place. In the major metropolitan centers the readers who once supported five or six daily newspapers, have moved to suburban communities. These new publics now support dozens of daily newspaper and hundreds of community weeklies.

Some of the suburban dailies are actually larger and better newspapers than the metropolitan papers they supplanted.

The new newspapers, like the new magazines, are flourishing because they represent a well-defined public. For the retail advertiser it is the best public, made up of the highest percentage of prospective customers.

"Before I sign anything, do you cross your heart and hope to die that you will honor the one-year warranty?"

This is the caption from a cartoon appearing recently in The New Yorker Magazine. The scene is an automobile dealer showroom, and the words are spoken by a customer seated across from a salesman.

The cartoon is mildly funny, unless you happen to be a person who has had trouble getting a new car warranty honored the last few years.

There is growing dissatisfaction on the part of car buyers throughout the country with the performance of auto dealers and manufacturers on the warranties they issue on their products.

Why? It's because more and more buyers are finding they have been deceived by the terms and conditions they have been given concerning the performance and condition of the cars they buy. In many cases, the buyer's only recourse is to sue for breach of warranty - a somewhat unsatisfactory way to get a door hinge adjusted, for example.

Mostly, defects in new cars are ones of comfort and convenience. But in some cases defects make the cars unsafe to drive. One of the more common serious defects seems to be improperly aligned front end. This causes excessive tire wear and poor handling characteristics in certain situations.

Part of this problem may be solved if two rules proposed by Consumers Union are adopted by the Federal Trade Commission:

"A new car warranty is false and deceptive if it attempts to disclaim liability for financial loss or damage caused as a result of defects."

"A new car warranty is false and deceptive unless it promises to repair the automobile itself in the event of serious defects which the manufacturer or dealer cannot or does not remedy."

CU also makes two other recommendations: That customers be given cars to drive, at no expense, while their new cars are being repaired under warranty; and that the Department of Transportation write a minimum standard warranty for all new cars sold in the U.S.

HOPES FOR VIETNAM SIECUS FALLOUT' MEDIA 'MURDER.'

To Americans fighting in Viet Nam, we wish you a happy New Year; i.e., winning and coming home.

To the South Vietnamese, a happy New Year; i.e., sticking by your natural desire to survive, and ignoring the American Viet Cong who speak in diplomates.

Since the November 1st bombing halt, the North Vietnamese have reopened three ports and lengthened two landing strips, the latter to accommodate Communist Mig jets. The three ports, Quang Khe, Dong Hoi and Vinh, are unloading freighters and tankers whose supplies in south-bound truck traffic have increased 10-fold. If allowing this isn't insanity, will someone please explain what is sane about it?

Our article on the SIECUS brand of sex education (Vol. 10 No. 146) has stirred much reader interest. Late word is that the Anaheim school district, where the hurry-up, reddish program first started, is in an uproar, with clouds of parents protesting at school board meetings. An observer on the scene says "Most people are betting the Board will fire Anaheim School Superintendent Paul Cook before the April school board election."

The Neighborhood Youth Corps was set up to pay poor teenagers who need part of full-time work training so they can stay in, or return to, school. Sniffing the anti-poverty air around Detroit, the Congressional watchdog known as the Government Accounting Office (GAO) found the program somewhat amiss. It discovered that hundreds of high school graduates, and some college students, collected government pay checks while a part of 16 Neighborhood Youth Corps projects in 1966 and 1967. Some of the youths received the aid though their families did not meet the low-income provisions of the program. GAO said federal officers "were performing very little monitoring" of the Detroit projects.

Atlantic states this situation is reversed. In that area Federation data shows 67 percent of the not yet become aware of the independent retailers with 50 or more employees are honoring the credit cards, more than twice the national average in this size category. They report 18 percent of their volume done on them, or 50 percent more than the national average of 12 percent reported by this category.

A sharp contrast is found in the middle Atlantic states, which include the big metropolitan centers of New York and Philadelphia.

In this area, although the number of smaller retailers accepting credit cards is approximately half the national average, the volume of business they do on them is almost 50 percent higher.

But in the larger independent retailers, those with over 50 employees, only 10 percent report honoring the cards, and these establishments report only 10 percent of their volume is on them.

Based on data collected to date, Federation researchers arrive at two tentative conclusions:

1. There are wide differentials in the expertise, or the aggressiveness, or perhaps a combination of both, by which banks promote retailer acceptance of credit cards.

2. Consumer usage of credit cards, even in areas of heavy promotion, does not seem to reflect commensurate gains.

On the last point, it cannot be determined if this is due to consumers still being captive of the big corporate merchandisers revolving credit plans, or if consumers use bank credit cards largely for the purchase of luxury, or semi-luxury items, and depend on other credit sources in purchasing the everyday sources.

There is also a possibility, Federation researchers claim, that the independent retailing community has not yet become aware of the fact that the credit cards afford them a competitive tool which could be used as the back bone for their own advertising and promotional

New York: — If you were a director, sent Mr. Fitzsimmons trucker moving aerial freight in the transcript of a hearing into out of the John F. Kennedy racket activity at the giant International Airport's cargo airport. The Teamsters official center and you didn't cooperate acknowledged receipt of the document.

Then, silence. For two years the local and the so-called truckmen's association have operated undisturbed. If Mr. Fitzsimmons did anything, he admonished his local leader instead of socializing with him, the record doesn't reveal this.

The asking price in some of these muscled circles was a $5,000 down payment and $1,000 a month. Otherwise, according to documents and transcripts now in the secured files of the New York State Commission of Investigation and the special presidential anticrime strike force council in the state's Southern District, there is a probe of vindictiveness over the defeat of his one-bank holding company bill. This would have prevented banks from going into competition with their own customers.

PRESS CLUB STATEMENT "This investigation is sought," snorted Stephens, "because you lost the one-bank holding company bill that you wanted."

"You would question the integrity of this committee as a means toward your end," agreed Rep. Seymour Halpern, R-N.Y., who has wrangled over $100,000 in assets which is multiplied by its vast powers to control the nation's credit. "Do you think you ought to be sworn if you are going to testify?" he demanded. The suggestion that a chairman be put under oath by his own committee was insulting, but Patman ignored it.

The chairman, his benign smile unchanged, started to present his case but Rep. Garry Brown, R-Mich., interrupted. "Do you think you ought to be sworn if you are going to testify?" he demanded. The suggestion that a chairman be put under oath by his own committee was insulting, but Patman ignored it.

The banks are not as beloved by the voters, therefore, as by certain Congressmen who have accepted cut-rate loans, legal fees, campaign contributions and other financial benefits from bankers in return for legislative favors. Confidential loan records made available to this column, for example, reveal that 124 House members are in hock to the staid National Bank of Washington. They were able to borrow the money at 6 1/2 percent interest at a time when Regardless of one's feelings about this industry, its potential to influence public opinion and public decisions is obvious."

It is scarcely surprising, therefore, that House Banking Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., ran into opposition rates are feeding the fires of inflation like gasoline.

Husband Is Illiterate...Can Wife Help

Him Learn To Read, Write? How?

Dear Ann Landers: The way the homosexuals are taking over the country, a straight person is considered an oddity. One must look hard and long these days to find a movie or a play that deals with heterosexual love. Love between a man and a woman suddenly seems old-fashioned, out of style, or just plain dull.

And now, I see there's a church out in Hollywood (natch) that has a fairy pastor and a congregation composed of nearly 300 fags and lesbians. (When the word gets around, you won't be able to get into the place.)

The pastor was formerly associated with a church in Tennessee. He was married, divorced and has a son. This pastor was excommunicated because his church does not approve of dancing, movies or wearing jewelry. You can imagine the reaction when they learned he was gay!

This clergymen recently announced that he will "marry" homosexual couples who have lived together for at least six months. He made it clear that these marriages are not legal. "But they are spiritual," he said emphatically and, "emotionally binding." What do you think of this, Ann. Dare you speak out?— Resident Of The World's Largest Open-Air Lunatic Asylum - Los Angeles

Dear Resident: If homosexuals want to pray as a group, it's all right with me. I'm more concerned about the violent people in our society than those who meet in peaceful assembly to worship.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been reading your column for years hoping someone would write in with my problem. No one has. Please help me — I'm getting desperate.

My husband is 36 years old. He cannot read or write. He can sign his name and address — and that's all.

When he was a child his parents moved a great deal. They were very poor and he missed a lot of school. Nobody noticed. I wasn't aware of his illiteracy until after we were married. He used to pretend he left his glasses somewhere and I read things to him before I realized he couldn't read.

We have three lovely children and we live in a nice neighborhood. This wonderful man works seven days a week and is considered a fine employee. Unfortunately, he has had to pass up many promotions because of his illiteracy. He is ashamed of it and I cannot let anyone know.

I've seen him try to learn while pretending to help the children with their homework, but it is beyond him. It breaks my heart. Finally he agreed to let me teach him but I don't know where to begin. I am not a teacher and he won't go to a school because he is too embarrassed. If you can help me to help this wonderful man, I will be ever grateful. -- His Wife

Dear Wife: It could be that your husband has dyslexia—a brain disorder not uncommon in people who have reading problems. This can be corrected. Suggest that he get himself tested. (The school principal can direct you.) If he does not have dyslexia, go to the first grade teacher and ask her to recommend books and a manual to help you teach him. She need not know the material is for your husband. Good luck and God bless.

ON RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE PRESIDENCY TO THE EDITOR

Boy and man I have lived through more than 17 presidential administrations. I have experienced prosperity and depression, sickness and health. During my time I have enjoyed many comic characters, chief among them being the Katzenjammer Kids, Hans and Fritz, brain children of the late Rudolph Dirks. As far as I know, Mr. Dirks has been dead for years. If he still lives I owe him an apology for saying he was dead. I hope if he is alive he will live forever. Mr. Dirks long since has retired his popular characters.

However, Hans and Fritz do live in the flesh in the persons of President Richard Nixon and Vice President Spiro (Ignatz) Agnew. Presidents Jack Kennedy and Franklin Roosevelt had keen senses of humor. However, the antics of Nixon and Agnew go beyond the range of sense of humor - they border on the absurdity. Agnew has the "happy family" of putting his foot in his mouth during all his speeches. When he isn't doing that he is making Democrats and Republicans, alike, mad by his silly statements. Washington news sleuths have been unable to determine, to date, whether Agnew's statements are his own, or he is the mouthpiece of Nixon. It is impossible that the sly and astute Nixon could be letting Agnew's words be trail balloons. If they are well received they are his, if adversely received they are those of Agnew. (This, however, would be no crime, or deserve adverse criticism, because it is the subordinate who always takes the gaff.)

Never in the history of the United States, certainly not in my more than 72 years of living has this country had a president who has turned the highest office of this country into one of personal grandiosity as President Richard Nixon has done. From boarding aircraft carriers to welcome returning astronauts to turning the White House over to comic and show people, Richard Nixon has gone to the extreme to keep up this personal grandiosity at the expense of the presidential office.

There is a certain amount of privacy due all individuals which was not the President of the United States has the right or privilege to invade; also there are prerogatives in the hands of designed organizations. These prerogatives should, by every manner of common decency, remain status quo.

Collegiate football was 100 years old in 1969 (I'm almost as old as football), but there is a difference. (Football is on the upgrade. I'm on the downgrade). For years it has been the custom of the National Collegiate Athletic Association to name the number one football team of the year; also in 100 years of collegiate football there has been an unwritten law that football players and their coaches be left alone at least a half an hour after each game to collect their thoughts and discuss mistakes during the game.

However, who do you suppose barged into the Texas football team's dressing room after the Longhorns had beaten Arkansas, 15 to 14. No other than Richard M (The M should stand for millstone) Nixon to proclaim Texas the No. 1 football team of the nation. He brought with him a plaque, which he presented to Darrell Royal, Texas coach, to see what they would do next. Americans eagerly await to see what the next farcical antic of their counterparts in the flesh, President Richard Nixon and Vice President Spiro (Ignatz) Agnew, will be to make them a marvelous game to come from behind and win.

Readers of the comic pages of another era watched with interest the antics of Hans and Fritz, the Katzenjammer Kids, to see what they would do next.

Americans eagerly await to see what the next farcical antic of their counterparts in the flesh, President Richard Nixon and Vice President Spiro (Ignatz) Agnew, will be to make them a marvelous game to come from behind and win.

Benton Mural

Eyed for Stamp

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has recommended a portion of a Thomas Hart Benton mural as pictorial commemoration of Missouri's 150 years as a state.

The sesquicentennial celebration comes in 1971 and the mural section is from a big wall painting at the Harry S. Truman Library in Independence, Mo. The mural is titled "Independence and the Opening of the West."

The portion selected by the Missouri muralist, Benon, shows a settler's family and an ox.

drawn covered wagon. Also shown is a Pawnee Indian with a peace pipe, a trapper, a French "voyageur" and a dog.

The selection was approved by the Missouri Sesquicentennial Commission and the governor.

Hearnes wrote Postmaster General Winton M. Blount that if his staff approved a commemorative stamp should be issued next year.

Who is this lady?

A. Little Orphan Annie
B. The Jolly Green Giantess
C. Miss Liberty
D. Mae West

If you picked anything other than C, well, you're in a whole lot of trouble.

Sure, you probably picked the Statue of Liberty. Everybody knows who she is and what she stands for.

Or do they?

It's amazing how many of us take this proud lady of the New York Harbor for granted.

We should know that her proper name is "Liberty Enlightening the World." That she symbolizes the triumph of freedom over tyranny. That she is a declaration of our independence.

Of course, we need more than statues to remind us of our freedom. We need action, by each and every one of us.

And that's where U.S. Savings Bonds come in. They help preserve that called freedom.

Take stock in America
Buy U.S. Savings Bonds

They help make this country of ours economically stronger to tackle some of the problems that face us.

And, buying Savings Bonds can be easy and automatic. All you have to do is join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank. And then you can sit back and forget 'em while the money piles up.

So think about the freedom we enjoy. And think about U.S. Savings Bonds as a way to keep us free.

As for Miss Liberty, well, when you're in New York go up and see her sometime.

If they're lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace 'em.

Above all, your wedding reflects you, down to the smallest detail. When choosing the bridal stationery for your wedding needs, let our services guide you.

"Peg dear, it won't be long before meal time."

"Yes Sam. Maybe today we will have barbecue pork."

This is the beginning of a Sam love story. The setting is in the trim down a little." It's true Sam is big, in fact home of Sam and Peg Shell, who love aquatic surroundings. Sam about six times larger than Peg, and Peg were united just last but Peg knew Sam was year and naturally Peg's name somewhat taken back at the prospects of having some little was changed afterward.

The conversation continues: Shells around the place. Peg's name didn't say anything further as yesterday's feast on chicken she nibbled on her meal. Sam's livers. And the fish the day eyes were sort of glazed by now.

Sam was thinking about fact, since we first met, I have been known as Papa Shell. Some of his thoughts were:

"I got indigestion from digest properly," Sam said with an affectionate look in his eyes. You could notice a faint grin on his face. He rarely grins at all. But when he does, you really take notice. There are those who believe Sam looks beastly at all times whether he grins or not.

Peg noticed Sam's brief moment of tenderness and moved a bit closer. It isn't often Sam shows affection, but Peg is a forgiving sort and capitalizes on Sam when he is in a weak emotional state, so to speak.

Peg thought this might be the time to spring a surprise on Sam.

"Sam there is something I have been wanting to tell you. You better quit moving around and listen. You know Sam that since the beginning creatures on earth have been increasing in number. I think we are about to add to this trend, Sam. I may be pregnant."

Sam was motionless. He didn't say anything. It should be noted, however, he didn't look any more beastly than usual.

"Well Sam, it takes two for these things you know. I hoped you would be happy," Peg pleaded. She snuggled a bit closer. Sam didn't move.

Peg's name was changed from Fran after Sam bit her left front leg off. It was then Peg knew she would be a part of Sam for a long time to come. They are pets of Lee Haley, who lives at Morehouse. This is the story of Sam and Peg up to now.

Revised Budget

of which Bob Robins is Chairman.

This is the largest budget ever proposed for the Dexter C of C, but reflects the increased activity of the Chamber of Commerce and also reflects the rising costs, President Jack Estes said.

Members of the Budget and Finance Committee in addition to Robins includes Estes, Frank Hamra, Marvin Ross and Tom Miller.

"As we increase our activities in various fields, including industrial growth, community betterment and other activities, it becomes necessary to raise more funds", Estes pointed out.

Board members, generally, said they felt it was a conservative budget, but one that will meet the needs of the community service organization during the year ahead.

The C of C now has a full time office manager in the person of Mrs. Mary Ellen Blankenship, and maintains an office in the City Administration Building. The C of C pays the city $25 per month for rent of that section of the building and also for use of the entire building for board meetings, committee meetings and other such functions.

Other expense items in the budget include $480 per year for telephone service, $360 per year for supplies, $240 a year for postage, and a sinking fund of $480 per year for the purchase of future office equipment.

Other major items in the budget include $300 a year for the Retail merchants Committee, $240 per year as the C of C share on sign space rental, $168 a year for property taxes and maintenance work on the property, $720 a year for travel expenses, $840 for the community betterment program and the youth program, and numerous other miscellaneous expenses.

The total projected budget came to $9,148.36, but a $75 per month sinking fund for the payment of interest on a real estate loan which the C of C owes, was also made a part of the budget, bringing the total to $10,048.36.

"If Dexter is to grow and expand, and if this is to continue to be a bigger and better Chamber of Commerce, we feel that this budget figure must be met", President Estes and members of the board pointed out.

The solicitation of funds to meet the budget is getting underway.

"The C of C and its activities", one board member said, "are vital to the continued betterment of our community. For this reason, this budget should be met and, we hope, over-subscribed".

Seaman recruit Wenders enlisted in the Navy's (CACHE) delayed enlistment program in September 1969 and picked his date for reporting to active duty at that time. He also chose the Navy's nuclear power submarine program. Seaman Recruit Wenders will spend his first two to three years in the Navy going to school and training for duty aboard one of the Navy's modern nuclear powered submarines.

PUBLIC NOTICE

SUBJECT: DAEOC Board Member Elections

The Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation has announced that elections to select members of the Board of Directors to represent the poor will be held on Monday, February 16, 1970, from 6:00 P.M. to 8:30 P.M. at each of the twelve Area Opportunity Centers in the six county Boothoo Area.

Two Board Members from each of the three counties of Franklin, New Madrid, and Pemiscott will be selected, which means that each of the two Area Opportunity Centers in these three counties will elect one representative.

In the other three counties of Mississippi, Scott, and Stoddard, one county representative will be selected from the two nominees selected by the three county nominees selected by the two Area Opportunity Centers held February 9, 1970, at each of the Area Opportunity Centers.

Those nominated for the election must be from the low-income group, or their selected representative, since he or she will be the DAEOC Board Representative of the poor for their particular county and must voice the problems of the poor to DAEOC in order to obtain programs to solve their problems through Community Action.

Three Robbed In St. Louis Hotel

50 Years Ago

February 16, 1920

Mrs. Joe Stubbs, Jr., Miss Amy Allen and Miss Gladys Doyle of Vandalia, Mo., on Strickland, who spent part of the past week in St. Louis, were robbed of $110 in money, two gold watches, a diamond ring and other jewelry at a hotel of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Young of this city.

There will be a memorial service held under the auspices of the Henry Meldrum Post of the American Legion at the Sikeston Methodist Church on Sunday afternoon. At that time memorials will be presented on behalf of the French Government to the next of kin of Americans who died or were killed during the late war. Atty. R.E. Bailey will deliver an address. Five memorials will be presented. One will go to Mrs. Meady Chormley of Sikeston in memory of her son, Fred R. Robertson, who was a member of Co. K, 140th Infantry.

Another will go to Mrs. C. Meldrum of Sikeston in memory of her son, Henry Meldrum, who was a member of Battery A, 129th Field Artillery. One will go to Albert Howard (col.) of Sikeston, in memory of his brother, Major Howard, who died at Camp Pike. One will go to Milton E. Plummer of Matthews, brother of Harley A. Plummer, who was a private in Co. E, 110th Engineers. The fifth will go to Mrs. Ellen Bond of Canalou, in memory of her son, Gilbert Bond, who was a private in Headquarters Co., 58th Infantry.

The wedding anniversaries of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. W. Baker, sr., and Mr. and Mrs. G.C. Baker were celebrated at the home of G.C. Baker on Tuesday with a dinner. This was the 45th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Baker, sr., and the 11th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. G.C. Baker.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. James Doyle of Vandalia, Mo., on February 12th, a daughter, who has been named Juanita Marie.

Blodgett—Mrs. W.H. Lemmons and son, Ross, drove to St. Louis Tuesday on business.

Charleston—Mrs. Steve Lewis spent the latter part of the week with friends in Dexter.

After nosing out two strong teams by one and two-point margins, the Sikeston boys basketball team went down to defeat in the final bracket Tuesday night in the Caruthersville Invitational Tournament, losing to Campbell by a score of 28 to 5. A large delegation of Sikeston fans made the trip to Caruthersville that afternoon and evening, when it became known that the locals had downed Steele that morning 23 to 21, and had defeated Caruthersville that afternoon by a single point, 24-23. Other local fans sent encouraging telegrams, but for a lost cause. The Sikeston cagers were simply "fagged out" when called upon to play the hardest game of the three-game series in a single day.

Frank Heisler is back in Sikeston again. He spent most of the winter in Cape Girardeau with his daughter, Mrs. Claude Gill.

Today is Monday, Feb. 16, the 47th day of 1970. There are 318 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1959, Fidel Castro was sworn in as Cuba's premier.

On this date:

In 1804, a force of American sailors slipped into the harbor of Tripoli and burned the U.S. Navy Frigate Philadelphia; which had been captured by pirates.

In 1846, the first Texas state legislature met in Austin. In 1871, the Franco-Prussian War ended in a defeat for France.

In 1862, nearly 15,000 Confederate troops surrendered at Ft. Donelson, Tenn., during the Civil War.

In 1918, during World War I, the English port of Dover was bombarded by a German submarine.

In 1942, in the second World War, German submarines attacked oil refineries on Aruba in the Dutch West Indies.

Ten years ago: Negroes were staging sit-in demonstrations at store lunch counters in the Carolinas, Florida, Virginia and Tennessee.

Five years ago: Three Americans and a Canadian woman were arrested on charges of plotting to bomb the Statue of Liberty, the Liberty Bell and the Washington Monument.

One year ago: Only minor incidents were reported as both sides in the Vietnam war observed a cease-fire to mark the Vietnamese holiday, Tet.
